Christian Family Theater

Aladdin Jr.

In October 2019 Christian Family Theater produced their last live youth performance before the COVID19 shutdowns. Disney's Aladdin Jr. was a beautifully produced show that included 39 young actors, special built dry ice foggers to flood the stage with clouds, and a remote-controlled magic carpet that glided across the stage. They were also selected by Disney Theatricals as one of the groups to be allowed to use an original prop lamp from the Broadway production of Aladdin in their show. Welcome CFT's cast of Aladdin Jr. as they perform their show's opening number, Arabian Nights.

Flat Stanley

As Covid moved across the globe organizations had to learn new ways to keep performing and youth theater is no exception. Fall of 2020 Christian Family Theater produced their first two online musicals using the zoom platform allowing students to perform in the safety of their homes while still creating art. These shows are affectionately called Zoomsicals. Their most recent offering was the story of Flat Stanley who was accidentally flattened by a bulletin board falling on him one night. Through the story he discovers that he can travel the world doing amazing things that no one has ever seen before by simply mailing himself through the mail. After realizing several actors had access to green screens the staff at CFT stepped up their game learning how to record and edit green screen shots of their actors and incorporating them into fun and creative ways to give the show a unique look. Here performing "Traveling Through the Mail" is the cast of "The Musical Adventures of Flat Stanley".
